

scientists—not politicians—are the people best qualified to evaluate funding proposals on their scientific merits